Getting the job that you love!

According to a survey of 2,000 people, 69% of employed respondents say they love their current job.

However, there is a gender gap, as more men than women love what they do for a living (82% vs. 59%) and call it their dream job (52% vs. 31%).

The survey also reveals that the average worker cycles through four different positions before finding their dream job.

Is this a real job??
